

Hey Guys, It's Chris. Has been a while hasn't it?

I'll keep it brief.

TW: suicide, harrasment, mental distress, etc

(Sorry for the weird formatting and weird writing, this was originally being written as a Twitter thread but I transferred it here

I mean this is not gonna be a super serious thing either, I'm writing this in a more casual way for reasons I'll talk about later. I am not coming back to defend anything, or prove something big, I'm just gonna say whatever is on my mind)

(I mean, why put an unfathomable amount of effort into something people are not gonna read and/or completely understand?)

Oh and again, don't come after or harass anybody referred to or mentioned here, I don't condone hate or any of that stuff.

Same thing I say at the start of any important statement yall know the drill.

You guys have already read or heard about my allegations.

(IMPORTANT DOCUMENTS TO READ)

- Original expose document against me from Rue and their group

\(My own copy in case it gets deleted\)

- My document from last year

- My document from 3 months ago a bit before my suicide attempt

- Blu's recent document defending himself and me

I tried to write a big document for the last 3 months that addressed and cleared everything up, but honestly I'm just tired; Tired of all of this.

I've written about and addressed all these things more times than I can count for the last 1.5 years.

While I've still disassociated from Blu since then, he wrote a long document in his and my defense. He also exposed a lot of lies and actions of the document writers.

<https://docs.google.com/document/d/17irCG13yhKWKrNw1UDMOEayaJgqrr9pRehJ11rPGP7I/edit?usp=sharing>

I'm gonna write this document as a continuation of his document, so PLEASE read it.

I wanna talk about and expand on some stuff from there, as well as stuff he didn't mention.

You can think of him however you'd like, but he was also targeted in that document, so he has the right to defend himself. He also addressed everything properly, and I had close to no involvement in this, as he wrote and posted it while I was in a psych ward.

Trust me, one of the reasons why this took so long was my inability to write something original. I was stuck on "What can I say that he didn't say?" and "What can I explain that I haven't explained before?" Going deep on that again would either be counterproductive or/and a waste of time due to how many times we've gone deep into this topic.

I know that not explaining all that mess deeply once over again will look like I don't want to take accountability or that I'm ignoring it, but please try to understand where I'm coming from. This has all been so confusing, complicated, and tiring. I don't want to spend another 2 months writing something that neither I nor somebody else in-the-know has explained in extensive detail before.

So, let's get started on the stuff I wanna expand on from Blu's document:

This is one of the most important parts, one of Rue's biggest points is their suicide attempt, which is in their words, my fault.

Even so, what in the hell are you expecting someone who's been affected by you two to the brink of suicide to feel towards you? Are you expecting things to be fine and dandy just because Rue was essentially forced into giving an insincere apology to you?

- I expect you to not blame the attempt on your life, on Chris and I, who simply showed people what you were saying about us in a group chat.
- I expect you not to joke about death threats against us, because we have never done the same to you. We have never sent a threat against you like you did to us. We never threatened to dox or contact your family like you did to us.
- You made us uncomfortable in our own houses and we will never forgive you for that.

The only thing we did was expose Rue's and the group's actions against us. That's all we did.

Yes, that can bring emotional distress, but what did you expect? For us to not defend ourselves? To just let this go on like nothing, while we felt endangered?

It would be different if in any way we influenced their attempt, like privately or in DMs, but we didn't.

We have the right to defend ourselves, we have the right to make ourselves be heard, and I had the right to make that document last year to expose your actions against me and Blu.

Apparently, I can't talk about my feelings and experience with mental health, ever 👍

Please keep in mind that this document was only made because Chris feared for the worst for his own reputation. Chris has only brought up his suicidal feelings to garner sympathy and redirect the vile hatred he holds for TMCHC and Rue back to them. Both Blu and Chris have said that Rue suicide baited when this is exactly what he's doing here. This is textbook emotional manipulation, bringing up your own suicidal thoughts to gain sympathy.

- The irony is genuinely palpable.
- You're telling Chris he shouldn't talk about his suicidal feelings (which is the kind of mentality that drives people to suicide in the first place) and then in the same breath you accuse him of suicide baiting, again, despite it not being bait as these are real actionable things that Chris was experiencing at the time, and then you call talking about suicidal thoughts as "emotional manipulation" despite you doing the exact same thing when faced with backlash from Chris and I making our document. So now you've just role-reversed what you said Chris and I were doing to you, and now you're doing the same to him.

Also, one of the biggest points in the document is that I claimed they suicide-baited, which I never did.

You keep repeating that through that whole exposal document without proof of me doing it, just because Blu did.

One of your biggest arguments falls flat because I never said that.

- Also, Chris has never said you baited suicide. That was all me by the way. I don't stand by it anymore, but you're slowly proving to me that those events are 50% of your entire argument as to why we're bad people despite us never directly interacting with you, and only responding publicly when you said shit against us. If your only argument toward the harassment claim pinned on Chris and I is that we made an exposal document which had secondary emotional repercussions that we could not have known about prior, then your argument is mute.

While yes it was extremely wrong for him to do so, he took it back afterwards and apologized for it. You can't claim that I said something when a completely different person did so. Afterwards you claim that I baited like it wasn't fucked up to claim so.

That's irony for ya.

I wanted to briefly mention that in their document they claim that the allegations about both Anthem and Moickey were “lies”

Allegations that, let me remind you, I didn't create or pull out of my ass. The many allegations against them were made by many different people they've both hurt and affected. I bet you guys haven't even read them. Also, you curiously forgot to mention how I've apologized to both of them for my own actions many times already, I already made peace with Moickey and yet you forgot to mention how that was resolved the day it started. (Also they failed to mention how I currently feel about Anthem's allegations and what he did to me, something I talked about in last year's document, yet something more to ignore.)

And I hear you ask, why don't we care about Chris's mental health? Why should any of us care about his mental health when he spread pure, hateful lies about not just us, but about Anthem, about Moickey, about multiple people who have yet to receive justice, and continues to do so to this very day? Give us a genuine reason why we should forgive him. There is no reason.

In their document, they have chosen to pick and choose stuff from many of my statements, while ignoring or calling “lies” to the things that inconvenienced them in their arguments. They keep claiming my multiple apologies to the public and individuals to be false, just for their argument. Frankly, I've always been honest in all of my documents.

I've apologized to the people involved, to Anthem, to Moickey, and yet you choose to not listen to anything I say, to ignore the ways I've tried to resolve and amend the situations, and just pick and choose from my statements out of context to fit your disgusting narrative.

If you choose to not believe anything I say regarding my actions and how I feel about them, then what is the point of wanting an apology.

This is an example of you ignoring something yet again. I proved that I drew these disgusting pieces when I was 16-17, and I also said that many of those were commissions of characters I didn't know much about. (read the doc from 1 year ago for full context) and yet you choose to bring this up again when there's proof that I was simply an idiotic teenager who deleted his NSFW account shortly after turning 18.

Furthermore, Chris calling him out for drawing NSFW art of underage characters is a bit odd, since he himself did that multiple times, and at one point acknowledged the fact a character was underage. Pot calling the kettle black much?

- I don't have much to say on this one besides “damn, spicy”

- This is from Rue's apology document:

I can't bare myself to know that I might've ruined your mental health.

- And then their tweet:

I don't give a hot damn about his mental health. Eat shit.

- Does this ring any bells about the harassment he got?

- Instead of sticking around and helping Rue recover from an emotional break, they just straight up all left the group chat. They were there just to see Chris feel pain, and the moment things went south they all left. And then later down the line, they made a second group chat after this one got exposed. I have screenshots from that one as well that I will share later down this doc.
- But for some reason despite them not giving a fuck about Chris' mental health, they expect us to care about theirs. Make it make sense, it's all or it's nothing.

- “Using the Internet as my diary”

Do you believe I cannot talk about my life on my own Twitter account? Do you believe I can't spread awareness about mental health and suicide on my own Twitter account? Do you believe that my Twitter account is not for me to talk personally on about my feelings or my life?

or through sending twitter followers after them. Show me the proof.
3. Chris owns his own Twitter account. He's allowed to talk about his internal emotions just like you do on a daily basis. Criticizing him for being emotionally open and then shooting it down is exactly what adds to depressive qualities to people who are hurt.

- I think the “threatening legal action” line is roughly referring to when I said that “Anthem’s written statement giving me the rights to the Vs Eteled OST is legally binding” line I said in the document last year.

It’s one thing to say “Man this thing you did might be illegal” but it is another thing to say “I’m suing you and taking you to court.”

6. There is no proof of Chris threatening legal action on anyone involved in this controversy from my knowledge. I’ve watched Anthem’s video and I believe that Chris may have threatened legal action on Anthem through there, but I have no part or opinion on it and that is outside of this situation since that’s between them and not me.

Outside of this, I've never threatened anybody with legal action.

- Yeah this was one of the reasons why I'm not making another 3-month 30-page long document re-addressing everything, because I still believe we didn't leave any rock unturned last year. It is still a really fulfilling document to know everything about this whole mess in my opinion. (yet they still choose to ignore many parts about it that hinders their narrative).

5. Nothing has been covered up, in his apology Chris covered everything substantially.

- I never contacted Rue directly because I had no ways of direct contact. No discord, no open Twitter direct messages, no nothing.

I've never even spoken to her privately before, so I gave her my apology through Hobqueer, who sent it to her. Trust me, I would have reached out privately if I had some means of access, that's something I've talked about before.

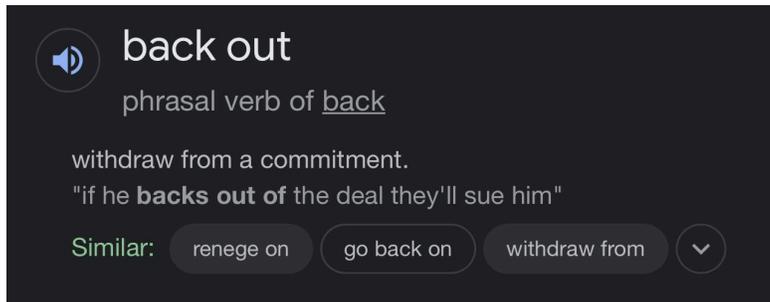

And once again, Chris never contacted her directly. She never knew ANYTHING he had said. This just shows that Chris is unable to own up to his actions and will do anything he can to avoid taking responsibility, giving backhanded and intermittent apologies instead of the sincere ones that would've stopped all of this to begin with.

- Never for a single millisecond did you contact either of us to apologize. 3rd parties are almost always necessary in drama like this and saying otherwise would be hypocritical.

- Ok so the next part of the document is Blu talking about the group chats and all that, I'm going to skip that part due to my therapist saying it would trigger me (it's obvious that me analyzing it for an extended period of time to talk about it in this document would do me some harm ya know)

(So we are going to be ending the document commentary now, again please go read Blu's document. It goes really deep.)

- just to correct this wording a bit, and correct me if I'm misunderstanding the wording, but I didn't back out from my attempt 3 months ago. It failed. I didn't pussy out from it.

A screenshot of a dictionary entry for the phrasal verb "back out". It includes a speaker icon, the definition "withdraw from a commitment.", an example sentence "if he backs out of the deal they'll sue him", and a "Similar:" section with buttons for "renege on", "go back on", "withdraw from", and a dropdown arrow.

A screenshot of a text document with a dark background and white text. The text is organized into several paragraphs and highlighted sections. The first paragraph is highlighted in white. The second paragraph is a list item. The third paragraph is highlighted in white. The fourth paragraph is a continuation of the text.

Backing out of a suicide attempt does not mean a person is baiting, to think so is extremely close-minded and disgusting thinking. What the hell is that logic?

- This is literally word for word exactly what Chris did. Chris backed out of an attempt on himself months ago, and then backed out of another one just a day before the release of this document, and now you're going against your own words by saying he baited which you yourself say . You contradict yourself in your own document.

Once again, Chris suicide baits and brings up his own suicidal thoughts in their conversation when nothing warranted it, along with alleging she "leaked" his face.

My previous attempts before this most recent one were more rushed in-the-moment stuff due to breakdowns. simple overdoses which luckily, had no chances to kill me. Only left me with some pain for some days afterward.

This most recent one, I spent 2 weeks planning it.

I wrote suicide letters for both my family and friends for the first time, I even had a big plan to pass down my channel and belongings to my friends and family.

I know some of you have heard about my attempt due to it leaking after I talked about it on the mod servers while in the hospital, so I'll briefly explain what happened.

(I sort of found it funny that it leaked as you see)

shit got posted on 4chan
dude im still confused af

TheMaskedChris 06/12/2023 4:07 PM

Welp

TheMaskedChris 06/12/2023 4:07 PM

Last few minutes I have with my phone and this is what I see

TheMaskedChris 06/12/2023 4:21 PM

Dude if I was on my fukin death bed that woudnt change a thing on how they act lol
Now I'm glad I didn't actually die, cuz it woudnt have changed a thing in their minds lmao

On the morning of June 12th, 2 days after the document came out, I attempted to hang myself in my closet. When I did it, I passed out for a few minutes, but the support bar broke and I thankfully woke up. I was in such a state of panic afterwards, it took me a couple of hours to finally call my parents who then rushed me to the hospital even when I was in agonizing pain. While I ended fine besides some bruises and minor side effects, I was told I was going to be sent to a psych ward for who knows how long.

I started panicking and begged for my phone to let my friends know what was going on.

In my panic, I posted about it on both mod servers where I was director in, Vs Eteled and Vs Tabi. I didn't think they would believe me if I didn't show proof, so I attached pictures.

For that, I apologized to them later when I could. While yes I was in a panic and not thinking correctly, that is still no excuse to expose them to such imagery.

Then I was sent to a psych ward for a week, with little contact with my family and only scheduled phone calls.

While I was there, Blu wrote the document and posted it, but almost nobody read it due to it being on his secondary account. That's why I'm talking about it here.

While I was initially panicking about being put in a ward, it ended up being a nice experience. I came out of there feeling pretty good for once, met plenty of people in similar situations to me, and all the staff were so nice and supportive, I can't recommend it enough. I've just been recovering ever since. Enjoying life, hanging out with my family, and relaxing.

I'm not blaming anybody or anything for my attempt, I'm just blaming myself. Nobody is to blame here but myself. For being foolish, for letting myself fall under pressure, I was an idiot for letting myself succumb to all of this. I scared my family, I scared my friends, I put them through such pain and anxiety, I never want to hurt them again like that. My life almost ended due to me listening to silly internet drama.

I was told by the doctors that if I hung there for a couple more seconds, I would have had permanent brain damage, or even died. I am extremely lucky to only have a line across my neck today, and nothing else.

(Does anybody know any good healing cream or something to get rid of this line, like man is this hard to hide with summer clothes lmao) (Seriously why do I still have this its beEN 3 MONTHS-

Now, I will just live for the happiness of my family, my friends, and myself. I'm done letting the worth of my life be dictated by anybody else. The only person who can dictate if I'm worth it is myself.

And to make that possible, after a lot of thought, I decided I'm gonna retire.

TheMaskedChris died the day I attempted suicide.

(Ok I know that sounds edgy but I came up with that while in the psych ward, give me a break k)

A big breakthrough for me is realizing that I don't need this. I don't need YouTube. I don't need this constant anxiety, I don't need this overwhelming fame and attention. The reason why I kept going for so long, is because I thought I was nothing without this.

My goal with TheMaskedChris was to make others happy with my art, to spread a bit of happiness to people with my work, just to make somebody's hard day just a bit more enjoyable. Whether it be with silly revenge hungry Mii's from an old overrated creepypasta, or dumb Oc's created when I was in elementary school. My creations made others happy. And even when I strayed far from that goal many times, that was always my reason for being TheMaskedChris. That's why I kept going and fighting so hard to keep this up. I thought that my goal in life would never be achievable without this, and thus, my life meant nothing when I felt it being ripped away. But I never realized that there are so, so many ways I can do that without being stuck to something that did me more harm than good. And seeing the lack of those smiles is what drove me to my suicide attempt, I couldn't see those smiles anymore, not over all the negativity around me. I grew to feel like my presence now did more harm than good in people, so I thought I didn't belong in this world anymore.

But yet, I'm still here, for some reason, I was given another chance, and now I'm not gonna waste it. I never realized there are so many ways I can make others happy, in the little and big things, I just failed to realize that before. and now I'm gonna do my best to live my life to the best I can. Being stuck in a computer all day is not life, is it?

So yeah, I'm off to do some other stuff with my life. I'll work hard, live life, and eventually go to art school. So maybe, someday, I can spread happiness with my work again, but in a much different way.

You guys just keep going, fight hard, treat others well, and enjoy life. It's all we can do as humans.

And if any of you are feeling the same thoughts that I had, please, get help. It is just a phone call away.

Getting help with my mental issues is the best thing I've ever done, and it will be for you too.

So this is goodbye.

Even with all the hardships and painful moments, truly, thank you all. Even if you turned your back on me, if you never cared, or if you supported me, thank you for these crazy 8 years as TheMaskedChris. From a small inspiring young artist to a big creator to an overwhelming example of how to mess up as a young YouTuber, All the things that I learned here, all my experiences and troubles, all my friends and mutuals, I will always treasure them. (even if I'm hiding in my closet anything that reminds me of TMC and FNF lmao, those just make me sad now)

Chris is out, peace! 🙌

Anthys Sin Bin  @BosipsFartbox · Jun 12
i hope chris fucking succeeds next time. dick.

Also, this is funny af lmao